

STATE ENDS BOMB CASE PROSECUTION

Billings' Attorney Has Seventy Witnesses to Rebut All the Testimony of Police in Plot of Infernal Machine Plant

Last Witness Identifies the Defendant As the Person He Helped to Top of Building on Market St. on Day of Parade

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—With the playing of its trump card by the identification of Warren K. Billings in the act of placing the suitcase containing an infernal machine at Stuart and Market streets during the preparedness parade, the prosecution practically closed its case at noon today. Several other witnesses of minor importance are to be called for the state and a continuance was had until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

It is expected that the defense will begin the presentation of evidence at 10 a. m. and Attorney Maxwell McNutt announced that he would call seventy witnesses in behalf of Billings.

James McDonald, who has been known as James McDonald, of 480 Fifth street, was the center of attraction throughout the morning and caused the only ripple of excitement throughout the session. He testified that he saw Billings, whom he identified, lay the suitcase outside the saloon flush against the wall on Stuart street.

TELLS OF MEETING.
"Billings then went into the saloon," said the witness, "and met a man who resembled Mooney and walked away."

McNutt, cross-examining, asked McDonald if he had taken part in a conversation with a man who asked him, "Do you realize that you will get the reward if you give this testimony?" and that he answered, "Yes, I do." McDonald denied any such incident.

John Crowley, an automobile mechanic, declared that he had seen Billings at Stuart and Mission streets, a block away. He recalled him particularly because he was the only man who failed to take off his hat while the Grand Army men were carrying the colors in the parade. Someone nudged him and he did finally remove his hat.

G. A. Slater, a member of the G. A. R., almost sat on the dynamite bomb.

"It was this way," declared Slater. "I saw the suitcase and I was going to sit on it, but I thought to myself, 'I wouldn't want anybody to sit on my suitcase,' so I didn't do it."

James McDugald, a 12-year-old boy, described observing the suitcase at Stuart and Market streets. He was not cross-examined. When he first appeared at headquarters a month ago the case could be said to be a closed case, but this was not in his testimony today. He was color guard in the parade of the First California Volunteers.

Louis Rominger escorted Billings to the roof at 711 Market street, he declared, and boosted up the suitcase to him.

"It weighed about thirty pounds, I should say," Rominger asserted.

The witness said further that he had seen Billings go down the street and disappear with two men and a woman. McNutt tangled him up on his ability to see the incident from the window on the second floor.

Bits of a leather suitcase, bullets and shells were offered in evidence and then Lieutenant Stephen Bunner was called. He testified to a conversation he overheard between Billings and Assistant District Attorney James Brennan.

"Why should I talk?" Bunner said Billings asked Brennan.

"You may save your neck," was Brennan's alleged reply.

At this point McNutt objected and Bunner was withdrawn.

D. D. Shaw, powder expert, next described the making of an infernal machine.

Scottish Rites Men Gather for Session

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 18.—Members of the supreme council of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Free Masonry, northern jurisdiction, expected to put in a busy day today preliminary to the formal opening of the one hundred and fourth annual meeting here tomorrow. This morning the Pennsylvania consistory exemplified the proposed thirty-second degree ritual (1912), while in another part of the Masonic Temple a meeting of the Royal Order of Scotland was held. The committee on charitable foundation held a conference later which was followed by the exemplification of the proposed thirty-second degree (1916) by the New York consistory.

Naval Airships Raid German Aerodromes

LONDON, Sept. 18.—A raid by British naval airships on German aerodromes at St. Denis and Westheim is reported in an official statement by the war office. The statement says:

"Yesterday afternoon a squadron of our naval airships carried out a further attack on enemy aerodromes at St. Denis and Westheim. A large number of bombs were dropped, with successful results. One of our machines was obliged to make a forced landing in Holland and the pilot has been interned."

KINDER TO BEASTS THAN MEN INFIRMARY IS COUNTY'S SHAME IGNORE STATE TENEMENT LAWS

(1)—Wagon shed dormitory, interior, showing beds crowded in a dismal, vermin-infested shack. Note fly paper on the beds.
(2)—Exterior of this sleeping place, showing horse barn of which he forms a part.
(3)—Cellar where men are housed without light or air in violation of State law.

(This is the third article of the series on the shame of Alameda county—the infirmery. The articles will deal with conditions as they exist today, and as they have existed for many years. The first article told of a wretched sweltering tent in which a smallpox patient is being kept; the second of the mingling of maternity cases with chronic sufferers and feeble-minded in one ward. This tells of some of the dormitory conditions. The barracks ward, the leper camp and the dormitory for aged women will be dealt with. The articles will attack no one, but they will assail a condition that must be remedied before disgrace is converted into a pitiful tragedy.)

By HARRY L. SULLY.

The barn at the County Infirmery is built upon the most approved plans of modern dairy practice—so Dr. C. A. Willis, superintendent and resident physician, declares. It is airy, and well lighted. The floors are of cement and are shining and clean. All the utensils are shining and clean. There is a fine herd of Holsteins here, and they have a record for quantity and quality of the milk they furnish. It is a commendable achievement in every way.

There is another barn at the County Infirmery. It is much older than the barn used for the cows. It is not airy. It is not well lighted. The floor is of wood. It is splintered and rotten.

Long before the dairy barn was built, this other barn existed. Even then it was old and full of cobwebs and spiders, and the floor was cracked and splintered.

GOOD ENOUGH FOR MEN.
But it was not used for cows. It was only for old men, and it was felt that it was good enough for them.

In the report concerning conditions at the County Infirmery made by the Alameda County Tax Association in 1912, there is a photograph of the interior of this barn, with its sloping roof, its cobwebs, its broken floor, and its rows of cots for old men.

In 1912 it was called a disgrace, and the demand was made that it should be remedied.

It is still the shame of Alameda County.

The photographs used in 1912 could be used today. The barn is really not a barn at all, but a wagon shed lean-to against the horse barn. There is an odor of manure perceptible about the place, and at night you can hear the horses kicking against their stalls. But the odor of manure is comparatively clean. There are other things that are worse.

There are bedbugs. I believe there are many people here who are not personally acquainted with the gay infestive bedbug. I was even told the other day that bedbugs do not grow in California, that they are not indigenous to the soil, and refuse to become naturalized.

POISON BY THE BARREL.
It is a mistake, and the old men who inhabit the wagon shed will testify that the California, or County Infirmery, variety of bedbug is one of the most persistent, vicious and hungry of his kind known to man.

Bedbug poison available not. There is only one remedy for this condition at this place. It is a remedy that could be recommended in connection with several other structures in this shameful spot. This is the remedy: Turn down the wagon shed.

I asked Dr. Willis about the vermin in this dormitory.

"We do the best we can," said Dr. Willis. I think he was becoming tired of repeating that sentence. He said it many times a day every day I had visited the infirmery.

"But is there no remedy? Can't you use enough poison to get rid of them?" Dr. Willis grow weary. He said:

"Why, man, I'm buying the stuff by the barrel right now, and using it by the barrel, too. The bedbugs seem to thrive on it. No matter how much we use, they are still with us, not only in this building, but in all the old buildings. This wood is rotten with them. They come up out of the ground from underneath. You cannot fight them in these old structures. It is hopeless. But we do the best we can, under the circumstances."

I peered into the dim wagon shed. The man with one leg scratched himself here and there, and then turned over on his cot and curled sleep. While I watched, another turned and scratched. I felt like scratching, too. It is not a pleasant place to inspect.

An old man dozed in the hot sun outside the door, sitting half bent over, upon an upturned box. He seemed but half alive. But now and then he too, would move a little, and his hand would automatically go to scratching.

NEITHER LIGHT NOR AIR.
This wretched "dormitory" is about thirty-three feet long and thirteen or fourteen feet wide. It contains fourteen beds, and, at night, has as many sleepers.

At one end, there is a window. It is the only window. It admits little light and less air. Probably in the winter, when the place is still more crowded, it admits less air.

It is the only door, and there is one door. At the other end, it admits more light and more air than the window. But in the winter it will be closed against the rain and the wind from the south. It will admit neither light nor air, and the solitary cobwebbed window will be the only light and ventilation for our "dormitory."

It is the pride of one of the richest and most prosperous counties in our Golden State.

The files I have mentioned before. They are swarmed in the sweltering tent in which the smallpox patient lay in torture, and covered the exposed parts of his body. They were in the kitchen and the dining-room, and the porch ward. They were everywhere, in great numbers. On several of the beds were spread sheets of sticky fly paper. They were well covered.

BASEMENT DORMITORY.
The wagon shed is bad. I cannot say it is any worse than the cellar, in which there are eleven beds.

In this basement dormitory was an old man in a wheel chair, sitting in the semi-darkness in his chair. He rolled himself away when we approached. Several other reclining figures paid no heed as I paced off the dimensions.

The basement is about 30 feet long by 13 feet in width. The ceiling, formed of the joists of the floor above, is 7½ feet above the floor at the lower end of the basement. There is a log of 8 inches about half-way back across the floor to make allowance for the rising ground. Even at that, considerable of the floor area is below the level of the ground outside.

The air-space in this elegant apartment gives about 270 cubic feet to each sleeper. The state tenement act declares it to be a misdemeanor to permit less than 400 cubic feet for each sleeper in a tenement.

COUNTY BREAKS LAW.
Here is a direct and palpable violation of state law by the county of Alameda. It is committed knowingly in a county institution. The published bulletin of the Alameda County Tax Association in 1912 was sent to members of the Board of Supervisors, so plans of ignorance would seem not to be well taken.

The law of the city of Oakland demands 500 cubic feet for each sleeper. But this is in a decently ventilated dormitory. The cellar is not decently ventilated. I doubt it, in winter, it can properly be said to be ventilated at all.

There are two double-sash windows. When the upper sash is lowered there is an aperture of 2 by 2 feet. There are two such apertures when both windows are open, which is not all the time. Also, there is the door, but this is kept open only in summer and not at night even then.

Here also there are bedbugs. And flies. And other vermin. Also rats. A dead rat was lying, fly-covered, in the roadway without.

There is another distressing thing about both these dormitories, so-called, that should be mentioned to give an honest picture of conditions. There is no sanitation worthy of the name. In the barn there are no toilet facilities whatever.

STAIRWAY IS NARROW.
A two-story building contains dormitories Nos. 14 and 15 of notorious memory. On each floor there are fourteen beds. The dimensions give 240 cubic feet of air for each sleeper. This falls 160 feet below the minimum fixed by the state law of California and 280 feet below the ordinance of the city of Oakland. Apparently the county of Alameda is privileged to break the law. The infraction has been long and flagrant.

One narrow stairway leads from the upper story of this dormitory. No self-respecting insurance company would accept one of the inmates as a reasonable risk.

This building is also old. The floors are cracked and the woodwork is a happy haven for bedbugs and other vermin. There are rats, too. The real remedy is the same as that in the case of the wagon shed: Fire. There is no other.

There are three large, comparatively new dormitories, housing about 100 men each. They are clean, approximately, and there are many windows. The cubic air law is violated in them in the winter time. There is no decent privacy for the men. The locker space is inadequate. There is a lavatory on each floor, with two toilets and three wash basins, for from forty to fifty men to a floor. But these conditions are so far removed from the others, that while they are not ideal, they may be allowed, for the time being, to pass.

ANIMALS, BUTTER OFF.
These buildings, and one or two others with some small shacks, and cottages, house the male indigents at the County Infirmery. There are 350 or more of these old and infirm men. Some are blind, some cripples, some merely old and decrepit. There are veterans of the Civil war here. I talked with one proud old "Johnny Reb" who knew that the war had decided the question as to whether this country should be a united nation.

There is no intelligent work being done in the care of these old men. They are being fed and clothed and sheltered. That is all. Of this I shall have more to say in another article. The thing that impresses itself here is that the animals at the infirmery are better kept and that the county of Alameda is breaking the law of the state of California 365 nights in the year.

TRADE TOUR WILL START TOMORROW

Merchants Will Visit Towns to Cement Commerce Friendships.

A special train will leave Oakland tomorrow morning a few minutes after 7 o'clock, bearing the most important trade extension committee ever sent on a commercial excursion from Oakland, which members of the Manufacturers' Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, with the uniformed delegates of the Advertising Bureau and the Oakland Boys' band, set forth for their trip into the San Joaquin valley. Tomorrow the party will visit Patterson and proceed through to Fresno, where the boys will give a concert, the delegates will be welcomed by the Chamber of Commerce and city officials of that place, and a stop will be made over night.

Los Banos, Turlock, Madera, and other towns will be visited Wednesday. The party will stop at Modesto to take in Alameda county day at the Stanislaus exposition, and will finally wind up the trip at Stockton, where the Oaklanders will be guests at a dinner. The return to Oakland will be made late in the evening.

Special "banquet" and several public entertainments are scheduled for the trip. The comedy features will include W. H. Seelye, the "Constable" of the party, who will be decorated with a tin star and will officiate at a "mock trial" on the train, with Max Horvinski, prosecuting attorney, and Walter Baker, as "Chinese" interpreter. The party has issued a general challenge to all towns to bring a dog who can conquer "Bismarck" Archie Tamm's savage canine fighter. The boys' band will play in every town, and several speakers will tell of Oakland's attractions and industrial achievements.

The Ghco excursion was so successful in cementing the friendship of Oakland and interior cities, that it resulted in such a lively stimulus to trade, that the present excursion was planned by the manufacturers.

The factory men will get into closer touch with the merchants of the various towns visited, and the Chamber of Commerce will be told that Oakland will cooperate with them in movements for the general good of the state.

New Greek Premier Announces Policies

ATHENS, Sept. 18.—Premier Kalamitopoulos announced today that the new ministry had assumed full responsibility before the country for its acts. The cabinet evidently accepts the note presented by the entente powers last June in the same spirit as the previous cabinet.

The note referred to said the entente powers did not require Greece to declare neutrality, but demanded demobilization of the Greek army, the formation of a non-political government and the holding of general elections after demobilization had restored the electorate body to normal conditions.

PRIMARY LAW ATTACKED AS VOID STATUTE

Los Angeles Petitioner Asks
Court to Set Aside Sections
Allowing Candidates to Take More Than One Nomination

Progressive Legislation Is Branded as Contradictory and in Conflict With Purpose of Popular Will of Voters

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—That the direct primary law is unconstitutional, and that a candidate falling of one nomination when he has run for more than one has not been nominated at all and should not be certified by the secretary of state, is the contention of Attorney Frank P. Doherty in a suit for a writ of mandate filed in the Supreme Court today.

A second and similar suit, which also may be filed during the day, contends that a candidate defeated in the race for his own party nomination cannot be nominated by another party by writing in his name on the ballot even though he receives the necessary number of votes. This action concerns the status of Henry Stanley Benedict, candidate for the Republican nomination in the Tenth Congressional district. He was defeated, but was nominated as a Progressive by the writing in of his name. The victorious candidate was H. Z. Osborne, and the petition will argue that Benedict is not entitled to nomination or a seat in the Progressive convention.

AGAINST AMBROSE.
The action is specifically directed against Thomas L. Ambrose, candidate for the Assembly of the Sixty-sixth district, who was nominated on every ticket save the Democratic. It is contended that it would be manifestly unjust to allow Ambrose to sit in the three conventions—Republican, Progressive and Prohibition—nominating the Presidential electors in each selecting campaign committee and having a voice in all of the inner circles.

John Croft, a citizen of Los Angeles, is the petitioner. He contends that "an elector seeking the nomination of more than one political party and who is defeated for such nomination by any of said parties is ineligible for said nomination to the same office, either as an independent candidate or the candidate for any other party at the ensuing general election."

That the position of the direct primary law, subdivision 2, section 24 thereof, authorizing a delegate to a state convention to take part in the affairs of the party convention of opposing parties is void, as it permits a person to hold more than one office at the same time, the said office being inconsistent and incompatible with each other.

LAW VOID.
That the direct primary law above referred to, more particularly subdivision 2, section 24, is void, in that it privileges in the body of the act, for a state central committee and a state executive committee to manage and carry on the campaign of the respective political party without making any reference to the same, directly or inferentially, in the title of the act.

The delay in the filing of the petition was due to the fact that the Los Angeles certificates did not reach Sacramento until Saturday.

The Supreme Court consented to hear immediate arguments, which were begun this morning.

Today's petition asks that Secretary Jordan be directed to:

"First, certify to the county clerk and registrars of voters of the county of Los Angeles the name of no candi-

G.O.P. Campaign Plans Changed

Leaders Will Organize
Western Fight

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Radical changes in speaking plans for the western Republican presidential campaign were expected as a result of the conference of the national advisory committee of the Republican party here today.

Alvin T. Hart, western manager, was back after a conference with eastern political leaders and Frank H. Hitchcock reported on his personal examination of the situation in Illinois. Among those present were Theodore E. Burton, Ohio; James Wilson, former secretary of agriculture, Iowa; J. H. Hitchcock, New York; Victor J. Sewater, Nebraska; James R. Garfield, Ohio; Nicholas Murray Butler, New York; James N. Hemenway, Indiana, and William R. Wilcox, national chairman, is expected tonight.

Senator William J. Stone of Missouri arrived at Democratic western headquarters today as a member of the senatorial campaign committee.

KEESLING TO BE REMOVED, RUMOR

Tenure of Office as Republican
Chairman to End at State Session.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 18.—By virtue of his position as chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, Francis V. Keesling of San Francisco will call the Republican state convention to order in the assembly chamber of the capitol tomorrow morning, but according to political gossip here today, his tenure as presiding officer will be short lived. One of the senior members of the state senate, it was said, will be selected as permanent chairman when the work of organizing is begun. Just who will be designated for this office is not known here, with the united wing of the Republican party in admitted control, it appeared, a foregone conclusion that a presiding officer favorable to Governor Johnson would be selected.

There was slight interest manifested here over the deliberations of any of the five party conventions which are to be convened tomorrow. Arrangements have been completed for their meeting places. The Progressives will hold their meetings in the rooms of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee. Democrats in the Senate chamber Committee, Socialists in the Senate Finance Committee room, and the Prohibitionists in the Appellate Court Chambers.

It was announced by W. F. Mixon, chairman of the state Republican Campaign Committee that a caucus of Republicans would be held here tonight to decide on a plan of action during the convention.

Nobody but the Clerk Remains in Store

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 18.—There was nobody home in the country's drug stores today but the soda clerk—and he's a fizzle. The bosses, the number of some 3000, are here in annual convention.

data for the office of member of the Assembly from the Sixty-sixth district representing the Republican, Progressive and Prohibition parties.

"Second, that no certificate of nomination be issued to said Thomas L. Ambrose entitling said Thomas L. Ambrose to a seat as a delegate in the said state convention of the said Republican, Progressive or Prohibition thereof, or of any adjournments thereof."

"Third, that the said direct primary law, and more particularly section 2, article 24 thereof, be declared unconstitutional and void."

SENATOR PHELAN OUT FOR PATTON

Solon Asserts That He Will Support Aspirant From South.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Senator James D. Phelan came out unhesitatingly and unequivocally in favor of George S. Patton, Democratic candidate for United States Senator from California, this morning and asserted that he would support him for election and would campaign in his behalf. He made a particular point that the south is entitled to the senatorship.

Not only did Senator Phelan declare that he thought Patton was the best man the Democrats could have selected, but he asserted that the southern section of the state was entitled to representation in the upper house of Congress and that he believed disaffection within the Republican ranks would give the Democratic candidate an equal chance with Governor Hiram Johnson.

"I consider that George S. Patton is the best man the Democrats could have put forward," asserted the senator. "I believe that the disaffection in the Republican ranks added to the strength of the Democratic party which I believe is on the increase in this state, will give him at least an equal chance with Governor Johnson. The strength of the situation of politics throughout the land is such that it is desirable that a Democratic senator should be elected during a Democratic administration. I believe that Senator Patton has an excellent chance. I think that the south is entitled to representation by the unwritten law. I have known George S. Patton all my life as a man from the south. I will make addresses for the ticket. I will do all I can to insure the election of Patton. As to the outcome I can make no prediction. California is a state you cannot tell anything about until the last vote is cast. The citizens of our state carry their sovereignty under their hats."

Senator Phelan returned yesterday from Washington, stopping at New York and Chicago enroute.

"The people over at Richmond have been anxious to have their city selected as a torpedo station and naval base," continued the senator. "The secretary of the navy, by direction of congress, appointed a commission just before I left to select torpedo stations and naval bases on the Pacific Coast with particular reference to California and San Francisco bay. I looked over the names of the men selected on that commission. They were all strangers to me but they were above the rank of commander in the navy and so I think Richmond can take heart."

Hughes Starts on Second Tour

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Invigorated by a five days' rest, Charles E. Hughes left New York at 9 a. m. today on his second campaign tour and from now will be on the road almost constantly until election day, November 7.

Mrs. Hughes found at the last moment that she could arrange her affairs so as to accompany her husband and was with the candidate when their train pulled out for what will be one of the most energetic campaigns ever attempted by a presidential candidate. Hughes will spread his doctrine of Republicanism in Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York when he returns here September 23. The schedule calls for an average of fifteen speeches a day. The Hughes party left in the car "National," attached to a special train. The entire train was made up of five cars to care for the party of thirty-five, including secretaries and newspaper men.

During the trip the nominees will attend three state fairs and will wind up his trip at the informal state Republican convention at Saratoga, N. Y., September 28.

Tribune Is Thanked by Alameda Parlor

The following resolutions were adopted by the ninth of September committee at a meeting held here:

Whereas, The sixty-sixth anniversary of the admission of California into the Union was fittingly celebrated in the city of Santa Rosa by a large concourse of the membership of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West and their friends, resident in the city of Oakland; and

Whereas, A material part of the success of that celebration was brought about by the publicity given it in the columns of the OAKLAND TRIBUNE, and inasmuch as many courtesies have been extended to the members of this committee by this great newspaper; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this, the joint ninth of September committee, composed of the representatives of the seventeen parlors of Alameda county, hereby extends its thanks and appreciation to The TRIBUNE for the favors so extended.

A. C. RENIG, Chairman.
E. T. BIVEN, Secretary.

Escape From Chaperon; Marry; Are Forgiven

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Married under the very nose of their chaperon, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cramer are today speeding toward Monterey by automobile. Mrs. W. S. Armstrong, Cramer's mother-in-law, has forgiven the couple. All ended well.

Cramer, a San Francisco attorney, had just returned from service at the border with the national guard. He was engaged to Miss Alma Armstrong, but while he feared not shot or shell, he was nervous about a big wedding ceremony.

So yesterday he invited his bride-to-be to an automobile ride. Mrs. Armstrong then said she would go, too—as chaperon. The couple conferred, took "mamma" and went to see a relative in San Francisco. And while the mother's back was turned for a minute or two there was a quick dash for the courthouse and a minister. Parental forgiveness was extended last night.

Coal Prices Rise; Increase 40 Per Cent

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—With the American coal production for August three-quarters of a million tons less than normal retail price of stove coal, the standard of grade, today shows an advance of 40 cents a ton over the price last year at this time. Prominent coal dealers here said today that further advances this year are probable. The price of coal will depend upon the necessities of dealers and labor conditions at the mines. These latter conditions were described as "unsatisfactory."

Two-Day Bride Is Sought by Husband

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Frederick

W. Gardam aged 57, publisher of a weekly newspaper in Honolulu, continues to mourn his missing bride, aged 34, who went shopping Saturday afternoon with $250 of his money and has not yet returned. They had been married two days when she disappeared.

"I haven't slept for forty-eight hours," said the groom last night. "I know she will come back. It may take years, but she will come back."

"I fell asleep in the bathtub about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Hotel Dale," says Gardam, who is now at the Turpin. "When I woke up somebody had let the water out of the tub and my bride was gone."

Mahogany or oak

If the Victrola did nothing but bring to you the soul-stirring arias and concerted numbers of opera, beautifully rendered by the world's greatest artists, that alone would make it a treasured addition to your home.

But besides the compositions of the great masters, the Victrola brings into your home a wonderful variety of music and mirth that satisfies alike the longing for musical harmonies and the taste for sheer entertainment.

Whether you wish to hear the superb voice of Caruso or Melba; the witty songs of Harry Lauder or Nora Bayes; exquisite instrumental solos by Kreisler or Paderewski; stirring selections by Sousa's Band or Victor Herbert's Orchestra—the Victrola brings them to you true to life, just as they are rendered by the same artists in the great opera houses and theatres of the world.

And as you sit and enjoy all these musical riches, you will marvel at the varied accomplishments of the Victrola and thoroughly appreciate its value as a companion and entertainer—a treasured possession in your home.

Daily demonstrations at all Victor dealers'. Go today and hear the kind of music you like best. The Victor dealer in your neighborhood will gladly play it for you and demonstrate the various styles of the Victor and Victrola—$10 to $400.

RUSS FORCE RETREATING IN BULGARIA

Line Back 50 Miles; Ruman-Teutonic Pressure Drives the ians Are Now With Slav Column; Stand for Big Battle

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—Joined by fresh reinforcements, the Russo-Rumanian armies have taken up positions on a line extending from Orsova through Cobadin to Tula on the Black Sea, after a three-day retreat, it was officially announced this afternoon.

The new positions lie ten miles south of the important Cernavoda-Constanza railway, toward which the Germans, Bulgarians and Turks advanced about fifty miles.

South of Razova, a Danube river town, upon which the enemy rested his right flank, the Germans came in contact with Russo-Rumanian forces and captured five guns in a sharp engagement. An enemy counter-attack was repulsed.

The Rumanians have abandoned many guns in their hasty flight before Mackensen's forces. German airmen report that the Rumanians are hastily strengthening their lines south of the Cernavoda-Constanza railway, whose capture would practically cut Rumania off from communication with Russia by the Black sea.

The Austro-Germans continue their retreat in central Transylvania, but are holding their wings firmly against Rumanian attacks.

ROME, Sept. 18.—The Italians have broken the Austrian third line in the regions of Montefalcon after three days of fierce fighting.

On the whole front, from Goritz south to the sea, the new Italian drive on Trieste is proceeding satisfactorily. A whole series of Austrian positions from Oppacchiarella southward through Pietra Rossa, has been carried and the Austrians driven back to trench positions in the valleys.

Rambles Through the Shops

However, Capwell's Fashion Show, that is to be staged like a musical comedy revue next Tuesday evening on a 45-foot platform on the second floor, will not imperil the purse at all. Only the emotions of the spectators for the gowns are to be most elaborate and extreme, and the setting is to be equally ravishing. Fifth avenue effects to slow music and a program—pale bouillon neigees, street suits, alternating with evening gowns—this is the general idea of the plus footlights and the decorations. Nothing could be more upsetting than such as these.

There are to be fifteen or more manikins of varying types, who will exhibit frocks for different hours of the day—any number of them. But the evening creations are to predominate, as interest just now is focused on ball gowns, most justly, for they are infinitely more seductive than last spring. One of these affairs is of gray—like moonlight through fog—with a bodice of intricate yellow glittered crays and extended yellow below the waistline. Another especially charming frock that a blue-eyed beauty is to parade at the show in combined pink and turquoise blue in an unusual fashion. Two wing-like pannier draperies falling from the shoulders, pointed bodice on either side. Designs were embroidered in gold and blue on the bodice, and the lower half of the blue wings; lower down, beneath the pink mainline, lower still ending in silver lace. Little red and yellow and white shirred ribbon added fascination to a much-veiled drop skirt.

Beaded "peach baskets" are the latest of ornaments for peaches to wear on their chapeaux.

These glittering little ornaments, together with quantities of the new Tam o' Shanter hats, are the most conspicuous arrivals in the millinery department of Maymont & Upright's. Of these "tans" a word, because they are quite the most popular type of headgear worn in New York today. The East has gone mad over them, and no doubt the West is following suit swiftly—for they are so many varieties that no two look alike.

Rows of white stitching and huge white buttonholes punctuating the entire length of the front "made" a very swagger coat of white, discretely applied, and a great sailor collar of black opossum.

Perhaps fourteen inches above the lower edge of this coat, stitching ran around the front and back, interrupted at either side by two narrow gores decorated with a trio of huge blue cloth buttons. Similar stitching circled the sleeves below the elbows and indicated the vertical pockets in front where the white smocked pearly buttons stood guard.

Imprecable mystery is demanded of the astonishing veils of the moment. The fair one must appear unexpectably coy should she have any objection toward revealing her face in such details. She must also possess the aplomb to "get away" with it.

While there are many elaborate veils among the novelties at Taft & Penney's, many of the most attractive novelties are circular or square—intended to be worn flying loosely from a perfectly flat little hat. Some of the round ones are embroidered on over their honeycomb mesh with a thread-like floral design; others combine scroll patterns with velvety chenille dots dangle here and there over the surface; as for the edges, many end in pointed scallops. One of the most unusual conceits was a combination veil half of taupe chiffon to cover the top of the hat, and half of a figured gray and taupe mesh to hang over the face.

From velvet are evolved many of the most thrilling of the winter evening creations. For example, a turquoise blue gown in the window exhibition of Kahn's this week, where there is an outside fashion show shown by waxes lovely ones.

Like most of the smarter gowns, the skirt fell in many gathers, but with scarcely a suggestion of a hoop effect, and below, but a glimpse appeared of the silver lace and the flesh cream beneath the unique feature of this model was the V-shaped panel of gold lace forming the front of the bodice and cutting down in a point into the front of the skirt. From the pearl shoulder straps came two hands of turquoise tulle that crossed again in back, and then hung loose in soft ends that flattered down about the shoulders in case of a rude draught. The sleeves—they were all the sleeves that any truly long person could wear—consisted of long loops of turquoise tulle caught at the shoulder back of the arms—as a background, perhaps.

In the rage for enameled wooden lamps and lamps Chinese, or of gilded wood, new metal ones are still being turned out for those who like their gold glitter. An especially graceful burnished copper electric lamp at Jackson's is a standard shaped in the mould of a large vase. The design suggested an opening flower bud, and down at the base ran curved stems that flattened out into three root-forming feet.

Over the base spread an umbrella, top of amber glass held in sections by a frame of copper, simple about the edge, and the center forming an intricate design.

Whosoever designs the nightdresses of this generation is perfectly reckless—because they're all the sort that a shocking debutante would pounce upon. And, thus, even a modest matron with grown children might look risque in it.

Fancy one of flesh colored crepe de chine with an empire yoke of alternating bands—vertically placed—of the crepe and of gathered diaphanous georgette. Little folds of the georgette outline the square neck, the little sleeves and the lower edge of the yoke, stitched on with horizontal stitching of blue thread.

Still another of these coquettish nightdresses shown at Manheim & Mazor's, also of the flesh-toned crepe, had been constructed with an empire yoke of lace alternating with crepe sections. No sleeves, of course, but over the shoulders, narrow white ribbons tied two bits of lace together. It might be added that both of these gowns had been decorated with

SAN PABLO DAM TO BE RUSHED

Peoples Water Company Contracts for Work on Pending Project.

A force of sixty workmen started today on the construction work for the San Pablo dam, one of the largest engineering projects in the history of the bay region, and one of the biggest construction problems ever undertaken by the Peoples Water Company. The plan, which was started in 1907, with the late Arthur L. Adams as engineer in charge, will be rushed to completion as soon as possible. It is estimated that it will take the height of the dam will be 160 feet. The dam will be on San Pablo creek about six miles above the town of San Pablo, as according to the surveys and preliminary work done under the direction of Adams. The construction is to be on the property known as the Clancy ranch. The height of the dam will be 160 feet, the length of the crest 1250 feet, and the construction involves the placing of 1,800,000 yards of earth fill. The dam will be of the earthen type with concrete core wall.

The project will permit the flooding of 800 acres and will fill a reservoir of 12,500,000 gallons, or about two and a half times the capacity of the Lake Chabot reservoir. A filter house will purify the water before it is sent to the consumer.

MRS. ANNA R. MOLL DEAD.
ALBANY, Sept. 18.—Mrs. Ann Reginald Moll, widow of the late C. E. Moll and mother of Ida T. Moll, died today, at her home in this city. Mrs. Moll was born in Germany and was 79 years of age. She lived in this city nine years.

Any crimson satin roses caught on the left side of the yoke.

Brass and mustard and gold reign all the more supreme among colors this fall—those who have an untimely taste for the imperial shades had better flee to the mountains. It may result—this rage for greenish yellows in all increased brilliancy in our midst, since these psychologists on color insist that yellow stimulates the mind.

Gold thread designs embroidered on georgette crepe looked interesting to a satin frock of an old brass shade at the Eastern Outfitters Company's shop. This embroidery intervened between the satin bolero blouse and the white georgette vest at the neck, and adorned the lower edge of a 55-inch pleated collar falling at the back. Little silver buttons, forming a line down the front of the blouse and down the satin cuffs, concluding the crepe sleeves were another effective detail.

ARMY MAN AWAITS WOMAN'S DECISION

Alleged Check Forgery Proves
Mystery Following Auto Party.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—While conflicting stories are puzzling the police, John K. Brown, a salesman and army officer, is being held in jail, and Mrs. Beatrice Hutton, divorced wife of A. Hutton, is deciding whether she will prosecute or not on a charge of forgery. Brown says Mrs. Hutton gave him the check for $400 which caused the trouble. She says she stole one of her blank checks and signed it. A wild dash in an automobile from Santa Rosa also figures in the story.

Brown, who claims to be a victim of a "misunderstanding," said he and Mrs. Hutton went out for a ride. He spent all his money, he says, and upon appealing to her she gave him the check, which he says he cashed after much difficulty at the Portola-Louvre cafe. Mrs. Hutton said:

I never saw this man Brown before and hope never to again. He came out to my house last month as the escort of a very dear friend of mine, whom I have known for years, and who is all worked up over the way things have turned out.

Other people dropped in and an automobile ride was suggested. I said I was ill and unable to drive my own car, but they persuaded me to go out for a little while.

Most persons the virtues of a certain gas range made in California—(try California first, you see, is part of the idea that should appeal to any local patriot) out of an iron that makes a business of resisting rust. No orange spots all over this article, kitchen furniture if the coffee boils over on it!

No one cares much any more whether a cat has nine lives or not—unless he's trying to lose a pussy via chloroform or the lake—but Moneybags Smith's announcement of boys' suits with double lives arouses much interest in parents disgraced by high cost of living.

A second section of peplum, attached on the first about ten inches below the waist line, gave individuality to a flaring broadcloth tailor suit at Cosgrave's. The coat of this costume had been built with a bolero-like upper part and a new V-shaped back panel that forms a point under the collar and shapes out into a peplum—in this case the upper peplum.

Dead Uaxactun Is Found Again

Forgotten Guatemalan
Savant's Prize

BERKELEY, Sept. 18.—The story of how a dead and forgotten city has been discovered in Guatemala will be told by Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley in an illustrated lecture on "Hunting Hieroglyphics in the Central American Jungles," to be delivered at the California school of fine arts, San Francisco, Thursday evening.

Uaxactun is the name of the city. It is older than any Maya city ever before found according to Dr. Morley, who visits California under the auspices of the San Francisco Society of the Archaeological Society of America.

"The reputation for ferocity of the Indians of the neighborhood and the isolation and inaccessibility of this ancient Mexican city has kept the scientists away," says Dr. Morley.

Disregarded Plea Wins New Trial

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 18.—Frank Goodrum of Red Bluff, who on December 20, 1915, attempted to kill his wife and then commit suicide, will be given another trial, as the third appellate court has reversed the judgment of the lower court in convicting him of second degree murder and sentencing him to eighteen months imprisonment.

With his wife and her mother, Mrs. Harriet B. Royce, were walking in the Red Bluff business district, Goodrum accused his wife of having committed adultery with a man named Royce, from whom he was separated. He succeeded in wresting the gun from him, head and arms, and attempted to slash his own throat.

Goodrum, in his appeal for a new trial, alleged that the court disregarded his plea of insanity. In setting aside the lower court's judgment, the appellate court stated that the question of Goodrum's sanity was one to be settled solely by the jury.

Anti-Labor Plot Alleged in Suit

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—A restraining order against the law and order committee of the Chamber of Commerce and $300,000 are asked in an action filed today by Emil Buehner, representative of all culinary workers now on strike. The union men allege damage of $100,000 through the actions of the law and order committee, but ask $300,000 under the provisions of the Cartwright act, which provides for threefold payment. Conspiracy against labor is charged.

BARONESS FACES CHARGE OF CRIME

Famous Queen of Half-World
Is Sued by Woman
Lawyer.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Baroness May de Pallandt, once a leader in San Francisco's night life, former wife of the master of the king's hounds in England, and heroine of several sensational episodes, is accused of fraud in Chicago, according to news received here today by local attorneys. She is charged by Miss Frank Gray Shaver, a woman lawyer, with having obtained $100,000 "through fraud and misrepresentation."

The baroness now living in obscurity in Chicago, is the same woman, according to Pinkerton detectives, who was married to the master of hounds for the Princess of Wales when Victoria was Queen of England. It was charged that she swindled the baron's friends, and the baron offered her $10,000 to get a divorce. She refused to give up the title, but consented to a separation.

In San Francisco the baroness was known as Pauline Townsend, a beautiful, vivacious brunette of 18, who reigned as queen of the half-world during the latter eighties.

Her beauty won her a host of admirers, principally among men of means, and she soon became a figure in San Francisco's night life. Turning out the lights on Kearny street and Grant avenue in the early hours of the morning is said to have been her pet hobby.

Early in October, 1893, the record-breaking pace set by the woman was halted, when, with another woman known as Fanny Lyle, she was arrested and charged with grand larceny on the complaint of Louis de Ojeda, who accused both of having stolen $130 from him. The case was said to have been settled, but shortly thereafter the baroness, also known as Pauline Davidson and Maude Jackson, fled to Shanghai, China.

Fortune smiled on her in the Orient and she picked up about $10,000, with which she decided to invade Europe, where she met and married the infatuated baron. The baroness and her husband were separated late in 1903.

Capwells

Clay, Between Fourteenth and Fifteenth

CAPWELLS invite the public as guests for three days of Formal Fashion Display.

You who drive automobiles know the joy of it when the machine, properly tuned up and with good fuel, seems a thing of life—eager, responsive.

It isn't so largely in the cost of the machine—cost increases luxury, adds to the comfort; it is worth the price. But the eagerness, responsiveness, the thrill of the smooth, purring engine are largely the result of somebody taking care.

We have taken every thought and care in assembling fall stocks and we are now ready to show you in grand ensemble the results of our plans and labor.

Our buyers were all pledged to worthwhileness. They gave as much thought to keeping out wrong things as to getting right things.

Dependability, coupled with style, was the guiding motto.

CAPWELLS stand for quality and offers very wide selection.

Millinery Supreme

Over 200 beautiful Fall Hats will be added to our millinery stocks Tuesday morning for the formal fashion display.

These will include models Hats from Gage Bros., A. D. Burgess & Co., Hyland Bros., Jane Marsh, Andrea, Consello and Schawls Hats, as well as copies of originals from our own workrooms. ONE HAT OF A KIND ONLY is the boast of our Millinery Section.

CHAMP CLARK ON MAINE ELECTION.

Hon. Champ Clark, one of the galaxy of Democratic leaders who participated in the "big drive" in Maine, was asked last Tuesday at Joplin, Missouri, by a representative of the Kansas City Star to express an opinion on the returns from the Pine Tree State. With characteristic frankness and directness the Democratic Speaker of the House of Representatives unburdened himself as follows:

"We got hell licked out of us—got beat good and plenty. There's nothing to say. It reminds me of the country preacher who was called on for prayer unawares. He turned to the congregation and said: 'Sing a sockdologer while I collect my thoughts.' I'm collecting my thoughts."

WAR PROSPECTS.

General Brusiloff has made a prediction that the war will end in August, 1917. That coincides fairly well with the late General Kitchenner's prediction in the early stages of the fighting. Certain it is that there are no immediate signs of peace. The Germans have not held their own of late, but the fighting is still on the allies' soil, and the advances made are not of that nature that measures an overwhelming gain.

So far from exhaustion it might be said that many of the nations have but little more than got themselves on a war footing. There is no lack of money anywhere to carry on the frightful destruction, and neither side is inclined to sue for or propose a peace.

There is no possibility, as it would appear now, of the war ending in a collapse, as did Napoleon's aggression at Waterloo. Modern ways of fighting are all against a sudden ending of hostilities through the vanquishing of one of the opposing forces and the imposing of terms by the victor.

The world, more or less humane, looks on at the wholesale death, destruction, brutalities, suffering and general awfulness of it all in a helpless way. There is nothing that the neutral can do.

And it is becoming the habit to look askance at the future when peace shall have come at last. Publicists see new and very grave questions to confront the world, and especially this new land which has so many problems aside from the aftermath of the mighty convulsion in Europe. New standards of national comity; new distributions of population; new trends of trade; newly awakened energies of peoples hitherto quiescent; new political demands are sure to result.

Charles Evans Hughes, in his speeches, has set the country to thinking on this subject, arousing it to possibilities and problems upon which it had not spent much thought. There is no doubt that much can be done to prepare the country for the aftermath, which it is not impossible will come more as a shock than as an industrial and social revolution.

The police judges of San Francisco are opposing the project to make police judgeships appointive through a charter amendment. The claim is made that the civic league obtained many of the names to its petition through misrepresentation. Two of the members got there through appointment. And it is noticeable that they are among the most vehement of those who now protest against the change. It might be said in the argument that so far as tried, the appointments have not been an improvement upon selection by general ballot. The danger of the movement misarrying is likely to be the fact that the system has been tried in a way, and great benefits expected have not been realized.

The attitude and actions of the Greeks is confusing at this distance. Peculiarly so is the news conveyed in a despatch about a Greek army corps of 25,000 being transported to Germany. There are no particulars, but if such a move is contemplated it must render still more inexplicable the situation. The confusion is worse confounded by the reported declaration of the German plenipotentiary that "it is impossible to do anything (concerning the relief of the situation at Kavala), as the Bulgars are determined to treat the Greeks as undeclared enemies." And King Constantine doesn't clear the mist if it is true as reported that he said that "Greece is ready to join the entente allies whenever she can see her definite and certain advantage in so doing." It would seem there is no deep patriotic sentiment about it—only a consideration of whether it is immediately advantageous to espouse one side instead of the other, or to remain quiescent as to both.

THE PRESIDENT'S SHIFTING VIEW.

The President has found it expedient to take a more conciliatory position in two important matters than he was wont to when election day was farther off. The President's nature, disclosed as a citizen when he was uttering his thoughts so freely in books and speeches, seems quite in contrast with that which has developed since he became an inhabitant of the White House. Then he was severe in his characterization of the things of which he disapproved. Now he treads softly and speaks gently, and utters nothing supplementary to the outspoken words to which he was wont to give voice. In fact, quite the reverse.

On the suffrage question, for instance, he said enough before he became President to make it plain that he was opposed to the extension of the ballot to women. Even in the early days of his administration his lack of sympathy with the movement was more than apparent. Now, however, he is saying vague things that he expects the women to accept as indication of his friendliness to the "cause," while at the same time he hopes the voters in the South will read between the lines and understand the exigencies.

The President has written more than once of foreign immigration. Generally he has adopted a tone that is severely "American," or what some people used to think passed for that, and in rather frank criticism of the customs and practices and political ideals that were obtaining here through the influence of naturalized citizens who generally vote in a mass. Some of these expressions have been published, and they make queer reading. Election day is less than two months off, however, and the President is very far from the attitude that he assumed when, as a historian, he was writing his impressions and conclusions.

There is a vote that is likely to be almost solid at the forthcoming election, but about which there is little said as to its destination. The efforts to surround this vote and capture it is one of the spectacles that promotes the gaiety of those who are not in sympathy with the President's tactics. It is at least pretty plain that unstableness—shiftness, it would be denominated in other instances—is not a good equipment for one who goes before the people and makes bid for their favor in the large way that a candidate for the presidency must do.

Lloyd-George, British Secretary of War, thinks there is a deliberate campaign on foot in this country to doubt the good faith of the British government in the matter of censoring this country's mails. He seems to take the stand that we ought to hold still and permit it without feeling irritated. That is a pretty hard thing to do. When family letters arrive with the customary strip pasted around to the effect that an official has taken a peep inside, there is sure to be resentment. If this is true as to social correspondence, how much more is it likely to irritate when business letters are served that way? Occasional censorship of suspicious correspondence might not be objected to, but the wholesale process appears to be assuming too much authority and supervision.

A good deal has been said and written about the indifference of autoists to the laws made for the greater safety of the public. Within a week there has been two instances of magistrates disregarding these laws. If those who are placed in authority to enforce laws which safeguard the public are thus indifferent, how is a point to be made against laymen for similar derelictions? If thorough respect for such regulations as are certainly necessary for protection from this very modern menace is not accorded by officials who must enforce them, we will be a long time in establishing a respect for them on the part of the general public.

The proposition to bridge the bay is inducing the preliminary discussion that is necessary to such a mighty undertaking. Much that appears may not be vital, but in the multitude of suggestions some ideas are bound to eventuate. Naturally there are pros and cons. It is even undecided as yet that the people want a bridge, by that decided majority that leaves no doubt. The only way to establish that necessary fact is through exhaustive discussion of the proposition. Very good men often differ on momentous questions. So long as the differences are honest, and the discussions in good temper, publicity on all sides is desirable and beneficial.

Considerable stir has been made in Washington over the publication of General Funston's recommendation that Pershing's command be withdrawn from Mexico. The President has appointed a special investigating board. Newspaper correspondents are being grilled to compel them to disclose who gave out the information. If impossible to cashier some officer out of the service it may be found necessary to make an example of the newspaper men. Less is heard now of that "pitiless publicity" so loudly proclaimed a few years back.

NOTES and COMMENT

Small but pointed shot from the Stockton Mail: "Hogs Eat in Cafeteria," says a line over a news item. But that isn't necessarily news."

The fight to save the great trees of the Big Basin Park from the flames was successful. But it required stupendous exertions of hundreds of men for six days. And one thoughtless person was responsible for it all.

San Mateo has defeated a bond issue. The fact that it was sought to provide for the building of a swimming tank is not to inspire any pointed remarks whatever. San Mateo people take their baths quite often.

Vice-President Marshall says he would resign "if it came about that he would succeed to the presidency. This isn't a good time for faint-heartedness as the head of the government. Neither will the next four years be."

William H. Taft is to come out here on a tour for Hughes. He is a pretty good scout. California will welcome him and make it plain that it would have voted for him if it could.

The weak banking institutions of Chicago are tottering, the edifice having gone forth that no more "one-horse" banks are wanted. The one horse is likely to be on the poor depositors.

From the Avalon Islander, and appears to be a fish story: "W. A. Boyne, Los Angeles, has added a 248-pound giant bass to his string. He landed the fish in 55 minutes, with heavy tackle, on the launch Arrow."

There is a situation at Stanford. All the girls who aren't invited to student dances are warned to stay away. They have formed a habit of rubbering. The harm that it does is not apparent, but the newer ways of education are different.

A newspaper heads an editorial, "Brutality in the Balkans." Brutality, fails to express it. In fact, the poverty of the English language is made manifest when attempt is made to properly characterize the situation there.

Witnesses in the bomb cases appear to be regarded by attorneys for defense as more culpable than the accused. This bailing of witnesses who are often there because they can't escape is a custom that bores and often outrages the public intelligence.

Perhaps it is just as well that Dimitrakopoulos did not form a new Greek cabinet. In the Greek legislative body with the members pausing to enunciate his name every time they got up to speak, much time would have been lost.

The burning of over one thousand State-owned books by trustees of a school in which there had been cases of diphtheria has just come to the attention of the State Board of Health, who didn't think such a wholesale holocaust was necessary. But the school trustees had a microbe scare on.

The loan shark has been swatted at Hillsborough, through the action of the finance committee of the town trustees declaring it would not approve claims that had been shaved. Improvident people are always objects of solicitude, and very often solicitude does not circumvent the shark.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

The fifty Chico high school girls who are forming an athletic association should tear a leaf out of the book of Miss Florence Danforth, chief deputy county clerk, who, after supper last Sunday night and after tramping all day with girl chums over mountain trails, strolled into Oroville from Yankee Hill, a distance of 20 miles, and could easily have gone ten or a dozen miles more.—Chico Enterprise.

Angler J. C. Leary of Salt Lake City holds the season's record for the number of tuna caught in one day. Mr. Leary and his boatman left Avalon with five flying fish to be used as tuna bait. They returned with six tuna. One of the bait did double service.—Avalon Islander.

Fresno used to put autoists on their honor not to violate the speed laws, and it erected signs along the highways notifying drivers that "Fresno has no speed cops." And straightaway Fresno became the Mecca of speeders and accidents increased in numbers. Now the authorities have concluded that the honor system won't do. The signs have come down and cops patrol the highways.—Bakersfield Californian.

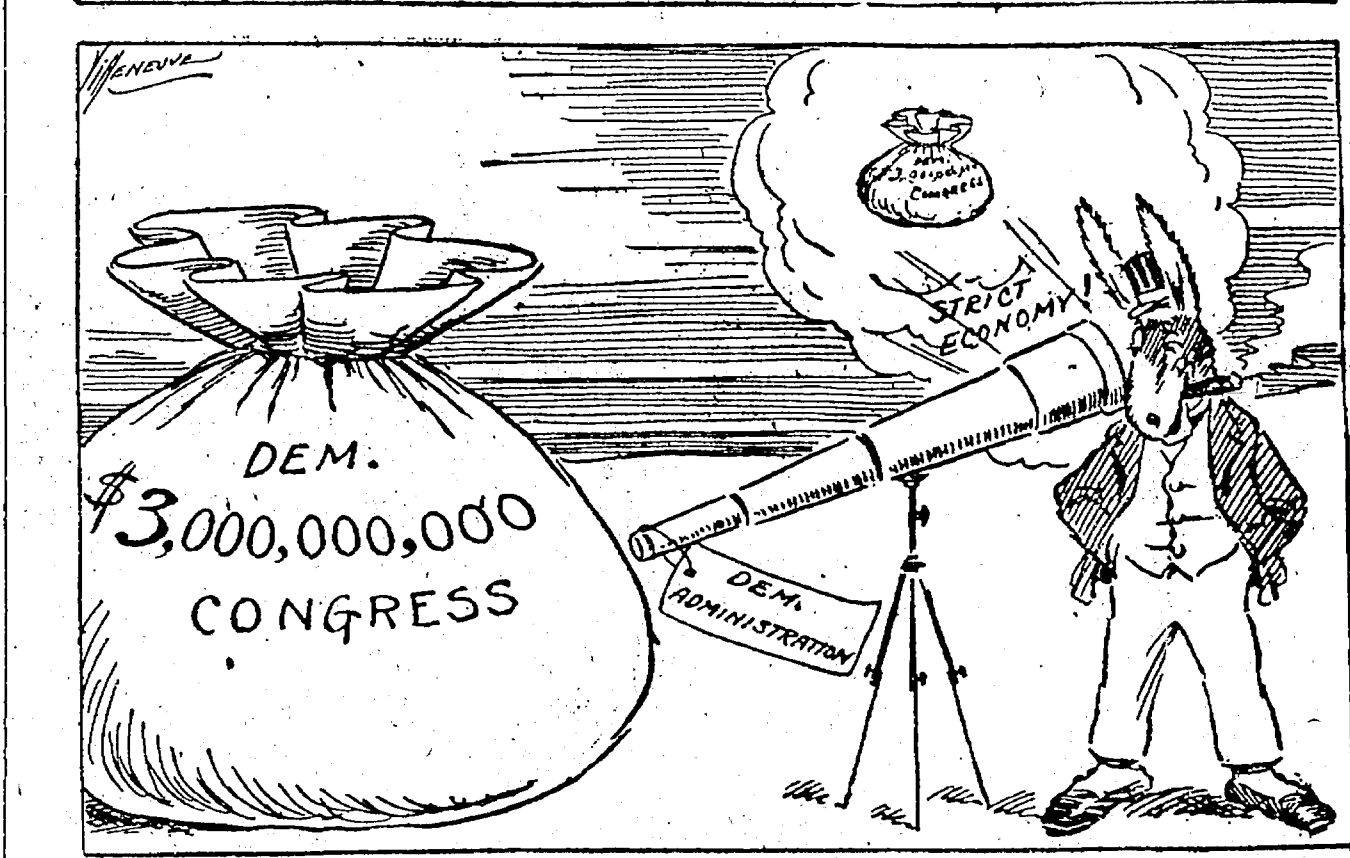

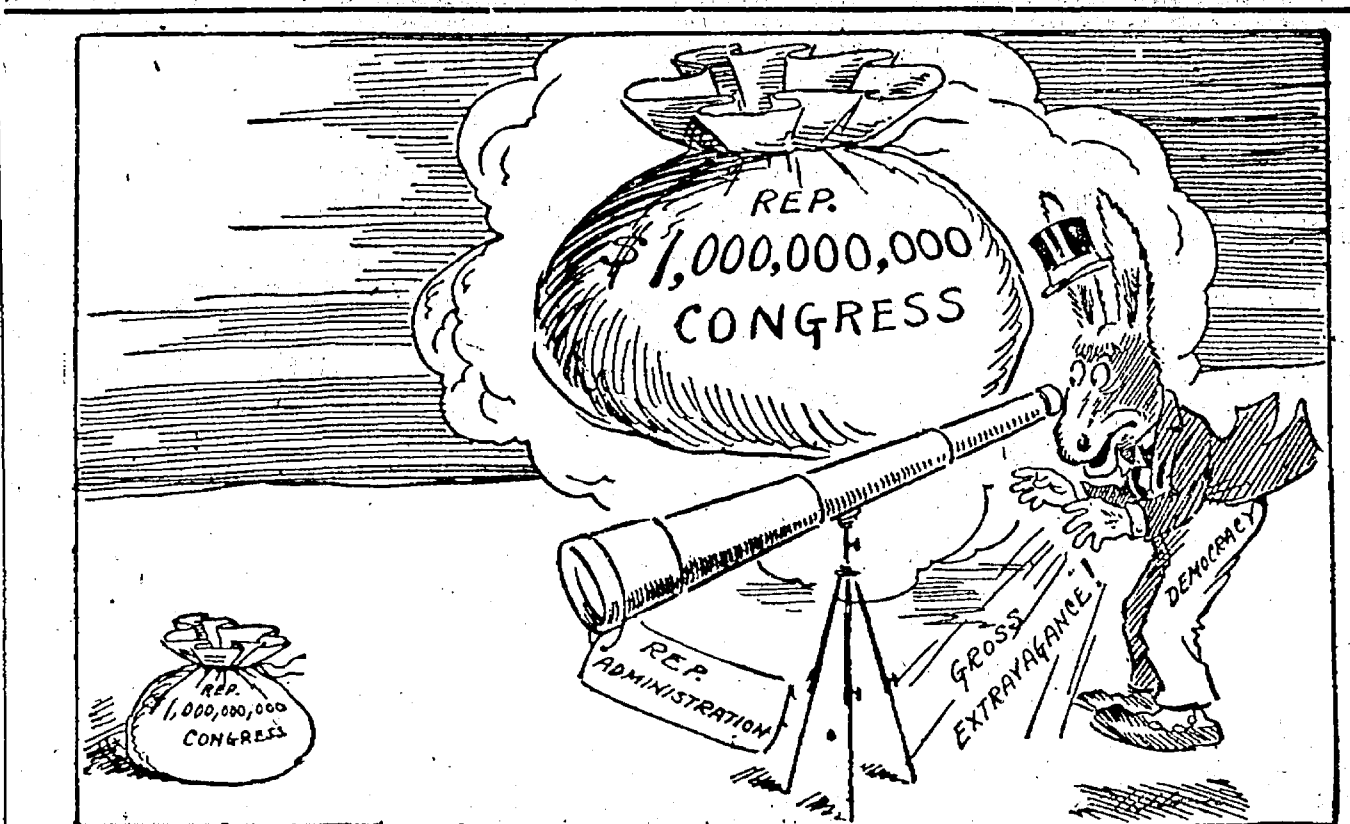

A dozen teachers are wondering if they have been duped by a fake book agent. Several weeks ago a very talkative agent, claiming to be the representative of several educational magazines published in New York, secured annual subscriptions from the teachers. Many paid for the books in advance. That was the last seen of the agent or the money.—Richmond Record-Herald.

The 1916 contracts for rice grown in the Sacramento valley were made out today. A large field force will start Monday to interview the growers and close contracts for their crops.—Oroville Register.

Inquiry of a number of local winemakers regarding the matter of bond required under the new wine and brandy schedule has brought forth the statement that regulations have not been formulated at Washington. In the meantime winemakers are expected to go ahead and the government will furnish all information required before the time comes for disposing of the vintage of 1916.—Cloverdale Revelle.

Beginning with October 1, the supervisors will discontinue granting financial aid to Uncle Sam's wards—the Indians. It is to be hoped the supervisors are actuated from a moral, rather than a political standpoint.—Lakeport Bee.

IT'S ALL IN THE POINT OF VIEW

PERILS OF THE SEA DIVER

It isn't the depth of water that always makes for danger in my business," remarked the veteran diver. "You know a man can drown just as dead in a bathtub as in 200 fathoms of water. The closest call I ever had was in water not more'n 25 feet deep, right close to a wharf in a city harbor. "I was looking for a boiler that had been lost off a scow, walking slowly through the muddy, dark water, close to the rows of piling. I had my spare air hose looped up over my arm, the way divers always carry it, paying out the line behind me as I advanced. "I passed a big grating of iron, a hatch grating laid down. It had fallen into the water end down and lodged in the soft mud that way. It stood almost as high as my head as I passed it. "A few steps farther on I was brought up with a sharp turn. The air hose had gotten fast somewhere. Groping my way back I found that the disturbance of my passing had upset the big grating and it now lay flat across my hose. "In order to ever reach the surface alive I had to free that hose. I stooped over to lift the grating and I found I couldn't do it. "I had only gone a few steps beyond the grate when it fell and there was not enough length of line between it and me to give me any freedom of movement. "Well, I'm in a fix this time, for sure."

thinks I. It was pretty serious, too, because there was no way of telling my helpers on the float what was wrong. It was strictly up to me to get out of that tight place. "For a time I tried sawing the air hose back and forth, hoping to dislodge it in some way. That didn't do me a bit of good. The mud was soft and the hose wasn't pinched so tight I didn't get some air, but the pressure was too heavy on it to let me get it free. "I used to be pretty good at lifting weights as a young fellow and it soon struck me that I'd have to lift that grating, whether 'twas easy or not. "I rested a little, sawing up strength for the lift. I took just as good a hold as the short length of hose would give me and heaved. The gate came up a little. I heaved harder till I had one end breast high. Just an inch or two more and I could shoulder it over. "The exertion made the blood hammer in my head and started a regular fireworks display in front of my eyes, like a drowning man sees when he suffocates. "I'll lift it or bust a blood vessel," says I, and by heaven, it lifted. I tugged the grating over, gave my signal cord a yank and was hauled to the top. "I'd certainly have felt pretty cheap if I'd died down there in hardy enough water to cover me."—Kansas City Star.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

School Director George Stark returned last evening from Chicago and other eastern cities. At the meeting of the Grand Council of the Catholic Ladies' Aid Society in Santa Cruz yesterday, Mrs. M. J. Lohse of this city the founder of the society, was nominated for grand president but declined the honor. Mr. and Mrs. James Moffitt and the Misses Moffitt are in Switzerland. They are expected home soon. The women suffragists held full sway last evening at Mills Tabernacle which was filled to overflowing. Mrs. Lloyd Baldwin, president of the Alameda County Political Equality Association, was chairman.

WITH MEMORY.

This, then, is the flower-banked stream Where love's faith was pledged in vain; You have awakened from your dream: You shall never dream again! In the lone world fare your way With your memories of May. Take your memories, one by one. In life's midnight still and deep; Tell them dreaming time is done, Kiss them into sweetest sleep! Since the dream was sweet, let be: Dream not to eternity! But to dream once more * * * Ah, well, Whatsoever the fates may hold, Heaven no story sweet can tell Sweet as was the dream of old! Sweet as the memory of the place Where life and love met face to face!—Frank L. Stanton in the Atlanta Constitution.

HIGH COST OF PORK.

Hogs sold at the stock yards yesterday for $11.30 per 100 pounds, live weight. This is the highest price recorded since the civil war, but those who have watched the market predict that it will go still higher. They claim that hogs will sell at $12 per 100 in September. These exceedingly high prices ought not to last. It takes only a short time to breed up the national drove of swine to proportions which will come more nearly supplying the demand. But really cheap meat, like cheap wheat, is gone forever. The constant demand for a more generous diet and the steady increase of population on land areas rigorously fixed will keep prices from ever declining to the old levels.—Chicago Journal.

THE JESTER.

The Silver Lining. The Tender-Hearted Cook—No bad news I hope, ma'am? The Mistress—The master's been wounded. The Cook—There now, ma'am; don't let that worry you. They tell me they can patch 'em up so's they're better than before.—Pittsburg Dispatch. Justified. "Look here, Snip," said Slowplay indignantly to his tailor, "you haven't put any pockets in these trousers." "No, Mr. Slowplay," said the tailor with a sigh; "I judged from your account here that you never had anything to put in them."—Harper's Weekly.

FOUNDING A CAREER.

"That was a great speech you made," said the enthusiastic friend. "Do you think it will help me?" asked Senator Sorghum. "Unquestionably. It may not have much influence in public affairs, but it ought to get you an engagement with any lecture bureau."—Brooklyn Citizen. Neutral Question. High—There's Fred Seals over there. He made a million in the Street last year. Low—Honestly? High—I don't know, but he made it.—The Lamb. Summer Housekeeping. "I hope you are not accumulating a lot of soiled dishes for your wife to wash when she returns from her vacation." "Nope, I use wooden dishes. Nothing to wash, and they serve the next morning to start the fire."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CIRCUMSTANCES ALTER CASES.

Farmer—Well, miss, seein' as 'ow you stuck fork in 'im, it's apt to make a man forget as you be passon's daughter.—Passing Show. Deep Philosophy. Bystander—I suppose you would like to take a ride without worrying about t'ree and the like? Motorist (fixing a puncture)—You bet I would. Bystander—Well, here's a car ticket.—Claparrad. "Do you ever take a flyer in the market?" "No," replied the munitions speculator. "Nothing doing with alrships. I'm for submarines."—Washington Star.

FAVORS A BAY BRIDGE.

To the Editor of The Tribune: The bay bridge should be built. The reasons why are very clear and simple.

1. Every part of the community surrounding San Francisco bay, however politically subdivided or whatever name it may bear, owes its existence to this wonderful harbor—the bay of San Francisco.
2. The harbor, while in one aspect a great asset, is in another aspect a handicap. The difficulties and cost of transporting merchandise and people from one side of San Francisco bay to another places a great economic burden upon the community of San Francisco bay as a whole and makes this community less able to compete with other cities of the Pacific coast and of the world.
3. The building of a feasible bridge across San Francisco bay compacts this metropolitan area into a more efficient commercial organism and makes it better able to undertake the successful manufacture of goods and better able to engage successfully in commerce, both by land and sea.
4. Since the population and wealth of any great city is directly proportioned to its ability to manufacture and to effect the transportation of goods and merchandise more cheaply and efficiently than other communities, it follows that in organizing and physically compacting the various communities that surround San Francisco bay by means of improved transportation across the bay the population and wealth of the bay region will be increased and it will take a higher place among the cities upon the shores of the Pacific.
5. It is unreasonable to suppose that the increase in population and wealth of the bay region as a whole through improved transportation between its parts, could be detrimental to any of those parts.

HENRY A. LAFLEY.

MINUTIVE REPUBLICS.

Many Americans are of the impression that Monaco is the smallest independent state in Europe, but as a matter of fact there are three states that are still smaller. It is also a matter of common belief that France, Switzerland and Portugal are the only republics in Europe, whereas there are two others—the republics of Andorra and San Marino. These republics, and the principality of Lichtenstein are all smaller in area than Monaco and all claim to be autonomous and independent. Lichtenstein is crowded in between Austria and Switzerland. Formerly it had a tiny army of its own, but this force was abolished for fear "some one might desire to fight with it." Austria keeps a protecting eye on Lichtenstein, while France performs a like office for Andorra, situated in the eastern Pyrenees. San Marino, however, looks after her own territory, thirty-three square miles, without foreign aid. The people of this little state are as proud of its history and enlightened institutions as republicans anywhere. San Marino has an army of 1100 men, and these have been found amply sufficient to insure its independence.—Exchange.

THE FLAG WILL FLY.

Once more the Pacific Mail puts the American flag over the Ecuador and starts the steamer from San Francisco for the Far East. Even stupid legislation cannot wholly kill American enterprise, but the L. A. Follettes and Furberths have much to answer for.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Social News Views of the Week Uncle Wiggly Kiddles Cuts up for kiddies

Dress Dolls for Fair Matrons, Belles Busy

Furiously popular as the season has been at Del Monte, everyone even faintly interested in golf or the social activity it attracts, is keen on the coming tournament there this month. Many of the peninsula set, a number of San Francisco debutantes and many number of golfers from all the country clubs are preparing to send their clubs and sport togs down next week. Others have already gone.

The coming competition promises to be most festive. At the recent meet of the Western Golf Association, the men players had it all to themselves, but this time the best of the women players will be out for honors. Every event, of course, will be punctuated—and celebrated—with the usual rush of dinner and dances.

When the polo season ended last month society fell back exhausted, half through the most elaborate dinners—so madly gay had the weeks been. In the set that entertained and was entertained most conspicuously and brilliantly even the freshest were too tired out almost to stay awake through the last evening. But now they are quite revived and ready for another round of pleasure.

So many reservations have already been made that, as last autumn, the hotel capacity is already taxed.

"Movies" are to be among the joys of the Big Baby Hospital bazaar at the Auditorium on at least one, if not all, of the three days it is to be in progress next month.

In planning the diversions that are to make this the most entertaining of all fairs yet given by the association, some one hit upon the brilliant idea of having a film matinee on Friday, October 19, principally for the amusement of the youngsters attending, but also for the fans among their elders. Movies certainly filled in odd moments and rested many spirits at the Exposition, so it will,

mother, Mrs. M. V. B. McAdam, who will leave San Francisco early next month.

The members of a group who have been playing cards together for several seasons will be entertained at a bridge luncheon next Friday by Mrs. William Thornton White at her home in Vernon Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. MacLafferty of Piedmont have returned from an extended tour of the Orient. They were away six months, taking in during their trip the Hawaiian Islands and other fascinating places.

The Berkeley studio of one of the artists whom the Exposition brought here from Germany—Mr. Ken Weber of Berlin—staged last Friday evening an entertainment unique in character. This was a "Shadow Dance," originated by Mr.

So many reservations have already been made that, as last autumn, the hotel capacity is already taxed.

"Movies" are to be among the joys of the Big Baby Hospital bazaar at the Auditorium on at least one, if not all, of the three days it is to be in progress next month.

'Backward Child,' Topic of Catholic Meeting

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Backwardness in children, its causes and types, formed one of the principal topics of discussion at the national conference of Catholic charities here today. The conference, which was held at Catholic University, divided itself into sectional meetings, there being no general session.

Cards are out announcing an engagement of much interest to musical circles—that of Miss Florence Muriel Matthews, a beautiful professional singer and pianist, to Mr. J. J. Henkle, a prominent business man of Butte, Montana. Miss Matthews, who has been on the musical comedy stage for the past four years, is the daughter of Mrs. F. J. Henkle of Monte Vista avenue.

The wedding will take place after the first of next year, and for a time the two will reside in Montana, returning later to California.

In honor of Miss Olive Libbey, an attractive bride-elect, Miss Evelyn Golly entertained at an elaborate shower party a dozen or so friends. Those who enjoyed the affair were Miss Merle Little, Miss Laurette Tierney, Miss Frances Campbell, Miss Marian Phillips, Miss Mary Mulvaney, Miss Nell Mulvaney, Miss Nora Barker, Miss Doris Barker, Miss Jean Barker, Miss Daisie Libbey, Miss Evelyn Golly and Miss Olive Libbey.

Miss Libbey, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Libbey of Woodside street, is affianced to Martin Garvin, the head of the chemistry department of a large plant. He is a graduate of the University of California, where he was affiliated with the Alpha Sigma Phi and Alpha Chi Sigma fraternities. The wedding is set for the 17th of October.

Mrs. Ray C. Vaughan of Berkeley and Miss Edna Wichman of Alameda are preparing to leave for a stay of indefinite length in the South where they will visit the San Diego Fair and other points of interest together. In honor of their departure several informal affairs were given in the past week.

Keyhole Observer Offers Evidence

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Justice Guy in the Supreme Court has appointed E. M. Booth as a referee to her testimony in the divorce action begun by Mrs. Rita B. Mack against Dr. Charles A. Mack. She names a Miss Beale Worden, and says that what Otto W. Fredericks, an agency detective, saw when peeping through a keyhole in the physician's office caused her to begin proceeding for a divorce.

Carte-Blanche Story

"Here, you had better take this basket with you," said Uncle Wiggly, said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy to the rabbit gentleman one morning, as she saw him start across the fields of his farm.

"What for?" he asked, "you want me to bring you something from the three and four cent store?"

"No, but I am going to get up a fine dinner today, Wiggly," went on Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, "and I want many things from your farm—fruits and vegetables—apples, grapes, carrots, parsley, cabbage and such like."

"Well, if you want all those things then indeed I had better take the basket," said Uncle Wiggly with a laugh. "I never could carry all them in my paws. I'll bring you whatever you need for dinner, Nurse Jane," and then with a low, polite bow, taking of his cap, he hopped on over his farm.

Soon he was at the place where the yellow carrots grew, and he pulled up some of those long, pointed vegetables which are shaped like ice cream cones. He put them in his basket and, going on a little farther, he picked a bunch of purple grapes.

"We will have these for dessert after the regular dinner is over," thought the bunny uncle.

Next he came to a field where grew an apple tree, and he picked some of the red-cheeked apples, which he put in his basket.

"And as Nurse Jane always has soup for dinner I'll pick some green parsley to put in the soup," thought the gentleman. So he did. His basket was now quite well filled, but he saw some blue and pink flowers growing in a row near the fence and he picked some of them.

They will look nice on the table, these flowers," said the bunny chap to himself. And then, with his basket on his paw, he started back across the fields of his farm toward the hollow stump where he lived.

Uncle Wiggly had not gone very far before he came to a clump of bushes, and from behind them he heard voices talking.

"Ah, little Pappetto, it is too bad—too bad!" said one voice. "Your beautiful coat is all spoiled. It is all in rags and tatters, and the pretty colors shine no more. Oh, little Pappetto, what shall we do?"

Then another voice answered, a chattering, chattering sort of voice, and it said: "No matter about the coat. Come on. You will make the music and I will dance and gather the pennies in my cap as I used to. Come!"

Uncle Wiggly. "Those are monkey-words. That must be a monkey, but I hope it is no relation to the monkey I paniced. Oh, I forgot! He is good now—that chimpanzee—not bad. I have nothing to fear."

Then the other voice spoke again, saying: "No, Pappetto, we cannot go out to gather the pennies until you have a new coat. The children would not laugh at you, nor watch you dance if you did not have on a nice coat. But how to get one we do not know. Oh, dear!"

"That is man-talk!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggly, for he knew how to talk and animal talk. "I must see what all this is about."

Carefully he peeped through the bushes, and he saw a nice old hand-organ grinder man sitting on the ground, and near him was a cute little monkey, holding in his paws what seemed to be a bundle of rags.

"Excuse me," spoke Uncle Wiggly, in his kindest voice, "but you seem to be in trouble, and, if you are, I would like to help you."

"What is this?" cried the hand-organ grinder man, jumping up. "A rabbit who talks! See, Pappetto, he is like you; he can speak so that I know what he says. Pappetto, which was the monkey's name, 'I must see what all this is about.'"

"My name is Uncle Wiggly," said the rabbit friend. "But no matter about that. Let me do something to help you, please. What the matter?"

"It is Pappetto's coat," answered the man sadly. "What is the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggly.

"See! Behold! It is this!" and the monkey himself held out in his paws the bundle of rags. "Once this was my most beautiful red, blue, yellow and green coat," said Pappetto, which was the monkey's name. "I wore it while master played the organ, and I danced in the sun and gathered the pennies in my cap. But last night, after a fine day, we lay down to sleep in the woods. We built a fire to keep warm, for I do not like the cold. I took off my nice coat and rolled it up so it would not wrinkle. W. W. W."

"But behold! See! In the morning my coat was like this!" and Pappetto held up the rags. "In the night my most beautiful coat got too near the fire and was burned. Alas! Now I have no coat."

"And I am too sad to make music," said the organ man.

Uncle Wiggly set down his basket on the ground. Then he began taking things out of it. He pulled some green leaves off a big oak tree and began fastening them together with long thorns, sewing the leaves with ribbon grass for thread.

"What are you doing?" asked the hand-organ grinder man.

"I am making your monkey, Pappetto, a new coat," said Uncle Wiggly. "First I will make a jacket of the green leaves to fit him. Then on that will sew yellow carrots, some skin from the red apple, some purple from the grapes, some blue and pink from the flowers I gathered there, and—wo shall see what we shall see!"

Uncle Wiggly made his paws move very slowly. Then he began taking things out of it. He pulled some green leaves off a big oak tree and began fastening them together with long thorns, sewing the leaves with ribbon grass for thread.

Women in Clubdom

Such spirit animated the Oakland Center of the California Civic League at its opening meeting this month that, while the other women's organizations waited the season at their usual leisurely pace, it annexed 200 new members on the spot and all at one moment in time. More will join next Friday.

That is one of the reasons why the leading persons of the center believe their activities deserve more than a word. As yet the California Civic League has not branched out into the innumerable ramifications of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, but it gathers together in an argumentative solidarity the radicals of all the women's organizations—together with a number of the advanced women of society.

The Oakland Center is now as large as the San Francisco Center that has been in its place for many years. As large—and it intends to arouse the voting feminine persons into a much more active mind—contingent than they have ever been in.

If the women who go to the polls this autumn go in blissful ignorance of what they are voting upon, why, it will not be the fault of the center, which is maintaining an open forum principally so that civic questions and political issues may be presented—upside down and right side up and all the way around—for the enlightenment of the public.

The next meeting of the center will be at the Hotel Oakland next Friday afternoon at 8:30 o'clock, with speeches scheduled for 3 o'clock. Meanwhile, public speaking classes are meeting under the direction of Mrs. George Fredericks—and parliamentary law classes—that inspire burning discussions of all the measures laws and other topics troubling feminists today.

Several representatives from among these will go down to attend the legislative council in Los Angeles next month. The center—not as a body—but among its leaders, is especially anxious that a community property law that will improve and not set back conditions be endorsed by the council. As yet there is violent though polite difference of opinion among the women's clubs and other organizations as to the provisions desirable in a bill.

However, next Saturday the center will send a corps to fill a booth at the "Try Oakland First" convention at the Municipal Auditorium.

The Association of Collegiate Alumnae will give a reception next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock to Dr. Aurelia Henry Reinhardt and to the trustees of Mills College at the century clubhouse, Sutter and Franklin streets, San Francisco. This will follow a luncheon attended by guests. Mrs. Reinhardt will speak briefly during the program.

This evening at the Hillside Club in Berkeley, Charles Keeler will be greeted by many of his Berkeley friends and especially by the club members, whose presidency he once held.

A reception committee including Mayor and Mrs. Samuel C. Irving, Edward Maybeck, the distinguished architect, Mrs. Maybeck, Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Webb, Beverly L. Hodghead, Mrs. W. W. Underhill, Gordon Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Scoonover, Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rees and Miss Annie Woodall, will meet the guests.

Charles Keeler, the poet, dramatist and lecturer, is to be given a reception and banquet on the evening of Wednesday, September 27, by the California Writers' Club, at the Hotel Oakland. This will be a large affair, as the members are to invite friends as well as the acquaintances of the California poet. Miss Sarah T. Nott, 4018, is in charge of the reservations for the banquet.

Mrs. Edward Dexter Knight, president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, will be the guest of honor at an elaborate reception that is to take place at the Twentieth Century Club of Berkeley this season. It is to be given from 3 until 5 o'clock and there will be many guests, as the opening function is always a smart affair.

On Thursday at 11 a. m. the history and landmarks section of the 25th Club will meet to outline its work for the coming year. Mrs. J. E. Thane, curator, will preside and Joseph T. Knowland, S. G. W., will take on the proposed plan of the co-operation of the section with the landmarks committee and the chair of California history at the University of California.

The first luncheon of the Oakland Club this season will be a "Try Oakland First" luncheon next Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. at the Hotel Claremont, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Henry Alexander. The luncheon will be planned by the function includes Mrs. Frederick B. Adams, Mrs. Henry Alexander, Mrs. E. B. Bais, Mrs. Herman Bais, Mrs. A. W. Baker, Mrs. Anna Bais, Mrs. E. B. Barstow, Miss Ella J. Barrows, Mrs. E. L. Bartholomew, Mrs. J. W. Bassford, Mrs. W. M. Beckwith, Mrs. L. Beeman, Mrs. W. H. Blanchard, Mrs. V. A. Boell, Mrs. J. M. Bonner, Mrs. J. C. Brandell, Mrs. Albert Brown, Mrs. C. J. Bruggiere, Mrs. G. W. Bunnell, Mrs. L. A. Bunnell.

The Adelphi Club called its members together for a luncheon and an earnest business meeting today at which a proposed amendment to the club constitution was voted upon. This is an amendment eliminating the words "and fifty" from a clause stating how a club member may become a life member. The effect is to reduce the sum necessary at one time.

The business meeting was set for 1:30 o'clock and was, of course, a most important one.

In order to raise funds for the work of the East Oakland Settlement that organization of philanthropic women is planning a concert similar to one given last year. This is to take place within a few weeks, the date to be announced later.

Master of the Boy Scouts Wilson will address the Emerson Mothers' Club at the regular meeting next Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Emerson school on "Boy Scouts."

When we say English, we mean English in style and character. Specifically, the styles are Elizabethan and Jacobean; the wood, oak in antique finish—each piece carrying with it into the rooms of our modern homes an appealing message of historical and poetical romance.

The Chairs and Settees have cane seats and backs and the Tables cane panels.

The legs and stretchers showing the alternating oval and square design reproduce the Elizabethan; while others with the twisted leg are characteristic of the Jacobean period—the latter style, perhaps, better known at the present day.

Many pieces, particularly a number of Tables, are beautifully carved on a portion of the top and sides.

Others are more simple in style, and show but a suggestion of carving.

In the extensive variety, at 25% reduction, will be found Bookcases, Flower Boxes, Footstools, Tables, Desks, Chairs, Rockers, Settees, Drop-Leaf Tables, Wall Tables, Console Tables, Mirrors, Waste Baskets, Sideboards, China Closets and Serving Tables.

The salmon bark St. Katherine, of the Red Salmon Canning company came into port today with 39,500 cones and 177 barrels of salmon. Four of her crew died while the vessel was away. Francisco Griso and Antonio Alio died from natural causes; C. A. Thayer was drowned July 7, and Albert Wittenberg was accidentally shot while hunting. Captain Larsen had his wife and three children with him on the trip from Oakland to Alaska and returned to the company's steamer Santa Cruz, which was sent to Australia with a lumber cargo, instead of laying up in Oakland harbor this winter.

CODEFISH SCHOONER WILL VOYAGE TO PACIFIC. The schooner Glendale, which returned from Alaska with codfish, has been chartered to load a cargo of merchandise for export to this port, to be repaired. The Pacific Coast Steamship company will gross the steamer Senator on the Congress.

CONGRESS IS TOWED INTO MARSHFIELD BAY. The tug Tye, Onconita and Gleanor towed the hull of the burned steamer Congress into the lower bay at Marshfield yesterday and pumped the water out of her hold. She is on even keel. Piles have been driven to hold the Congress until necessary repairs can be made to bring her to the drydock. It has been stated that the Congress may come to this port, to be repaired. The Pacific Coast Steamship company will gross the steamer Senator on the Congress.

WRECKERS LOSE HOPE OF SALVING BANDON. All hopes for the steamer Bandon, which went ashore September 1 at Port Orford 20 miles from Bandon, have been given up and the wreckers have returned home. Yesterday the steam schooner Phoenix arrived at Oakland harbor from Bandon, bringing this information. The Phoenix had on board ten tons of wrecking gear, 170 empty oil drums, 180,000 feet of lumber and 800,000 shingles.

Taking 1000 tons of ore from the Howard bunkers, the steamer Lewis Luckenbach, under command of Captain Connell, has sailed for Tacoma. Three large carg

BANDIT GANG LOOTS TRAIN OF $62,000

Mexicans Rifle Trains Near Tamosopo; Blow Up Cars Containing Pursuers, Resulting in Death of 40 Soldiers

LAREDO, Tex., Sept. 18.—Bandits held up a passenger train September 12 near Tamosopo, rifled the express car of $62,000 in gold, robbed the passengers and then pushed the train down the mountain side into a deep canyon, according to an apparently reliable report reaching here today. The passengers were permitted to detain, thus preventing loss of life, the report said.

On the following day, according to the report a troop train sent out to apprehend the bandits was blown up, at the same spot the hold-up occurred, resulting in the death of forty soldiers.

Couple Celebrate 65th Anniversary Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Sisson Feted Guests

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Sisson, celebrated the sixty-fifth anniversary of their wedding at a dinner at their home, 1611 Castro street, today. Several of their family of nine children were present. Others of the family are in the East.

Dr. Ernest Sisson and Dr. Effie Sisson, a son and a daughter, who are prominent Oakland physicians, were among those who honored Mr. and Mrs. Sisson.

The couple are natives of Rising Sun, Ind. After being many years in Mason, Ill., they came to Oakland seventeen years ago to live with Dr. Ernest Sisson. Mr. and Mrs. Sisson are aged 88 and 89 years, respectively.

McCLURE IS HERE.

E. P. McClure, head of the new Aluminum Products Company's factory now nearing completion in East Oakland, arrived today from LaGrange, Ind., to assume charge of the plant and superintend the opening. The new factory will be opened as soon as possible, a large number of contracts for aluminum goods at the present time awaiting the plant. The factory head was accompanied to Oakland by his wife and family and is registered at the Hotel Oakland. They will make their home here.

JACKSON'S AUTO CAUSES HOT ROW

Edwards Protests New Purchase in Face of Four Votes of Commission.

Commissioner F. F. Jackson was given the automobile which he lost through the negative vote of two members of the council last week when four members of that body today voted to appropriate $2475 for the purchase of a car for his personal use as a city official.

Whether or not he will get the motor car without considerable trouble remains to be seen, as Commissioner V. H. Edwards loudly proclaimed that he would refuse to permit the warrant for the car's purchase to go through his office. It was a rather exciting sitting of council when City Clerk Cummings read the ordinance for the appropriation. Edwards was on his feet when Cummings finished.

"I want to serve notice on the council that if this ordinance is passed and the automobile is purchased, I will reject the claims," Edwards announced. "This is not a regular procedure. The city charter provides that an ordinance which has been defeated cannot be reconsidered unless it is passed at a reconsideration was made at the time of the defeat and then the consideration could only come up a week later."

"This is a new ordinance, though," explained Jackson. "I have changed the ordinance making this one read what this machine is to be used for."

"That makes no difference," replied Edwards. "The subject matter is the same and the intent is the same."

MORE RULES.

At this point City Attorney Paul C. Morf ruled that Edwards's contention was wrong and a motion was put that the ordinance be adopted, whereupon Edwards demanded of Mayor Davis that he declare the procedure out of order. The mayor overruled this motion and a vote was taken. Commissioners Harry Anderson, W. J. Baccus, Jackson and the mayor voting aye, Edwards recorded the only negative vote.

At the conclusion of the council meeting Edwards said that he would sue it that the claim for the machine should not be paid. It may be that Jackson will have to go into court and mandamus his brother commissioner to make the payment before he can have his automobile at the city's expense.

TWO LOCAL MEN ARE ORDAINED

Ceremonies Principal Part of Sunday Activities of Convention.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Sept. 18.—The ordination of elders and deacons by Bishop Adna W. Leonard was the principal business yesterday before the California Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Churches of Northern California. The following were ordained as elders: Gideon Parger, Sisson; George W. Pearson, Oakland; G. Baba and William Bath, Sacramento.

The elders ordained were: C. A. Brice, Mountain View; Harry Pressfield, Berkeley; C. C. Linderman, San Leandro; K. Yoshioka, San Francisco.

Mrs. Mary Potter and Miss Elizabeth Merritt, San Francisco, were consecrated as deaconesses.

WILL TALK PROHIBITION.

ALBANY, Sept. 18.—"The Effects of Alcohol" will be portrayed in stereopticon slides and described in a lecture by Charles R. Fisher this evening at a public meeting in the Albany public school building on Main street. Fisher, who is president of the State Sunday School Association, is touring the counties in the interest of the prohibition amendments.

A PHYSICIAN'S FIRST STEP

When you are ill a physician's first step is to give a laxative, no matter what the trouble may be, because no medicine will take proper effect while waste is in the Lower Intestine.

If there were no waste there, you probably would not have to be ill at all because physicians agree that 95 per cent of all human ill is due to the accumulation of waste matter in the Lower Intestine.

Enlightened physicians are now recommending internal baths by means of the already using it to keep their intestines free from waste always and with correspondingly better health, strength and efficiency.

Ask about it at The Owl Drug Co., who will give you free an enlightening booklet, "Why Diet of Today Is Only 50 Per Cent Efficient." It will be most interesting to you.—Advertisement.

Commodore Fishes Boy From Waters of Bay

Commodore D. J. Keane of the California yacht club is receiving congratulations today for his prompt action as a life-saver when he rescued Melvin Howlett of 684 Twenty-fifth street from drowning off the municipal wharf at the foot of Fourteenth street.

Melvin, who is 13 years old, was sitting on his bicycle beside one of the dolphins on the dock, watching the Sunday fishermen, when someone pushed his wheel accidentally. Both boy and bicycle splashed into the bay.

As there was no life-saving apparatus on the wharf, a hurried call for help was sent to the yacht club and Keane responded. With a grappling hook and ropes, he succeeded in reaching the lad after he had gone down the third time. First aid was administered at the club house and Melvin was soon on his way home none the worse for his accident.

CURE FOR CHOLERA MORBUS.

"When our little boy, now seven years old, was a baby he was cured of cholera morbus by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Mrs. Sidney Simmons, Fair Haven, N. Y. "Since then other members of my family have used this valuable medicine for colic and bowel troubles with good satisfaction and I gladly endorse it as a remedy of exceptional merit." For sale by Osgood Bros. Drug Store.—Advertisement.

President Ripley states Santa Fe's position on eight-hour wage law and asks an important question.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Co.

CHICAGO, Ill., September 8, 1916.

TO SANTA FE EMPLOYEES AND THE PUBLIC:

This is the position of The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Company regarding the controversy with its train-service employees over their demand for increased compensation:

Congress, hastily acting under a threat of four leaders of labor organizations, enacted a so-called eight-hour law, which is nothing more nor less than an advance of twenty to twenty-five per cent in the wages of the best paid men in railway service.

It is only fair to our employees and the public to say that The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Company does not intend to comply with the law except as and when ordered to do so by the court of last resort.

The merits of the case have been fully explained in the last few months and need no further mention.

Should the courts finally decide that the increase must be paid, there will be an immediate demand from the remaining classes of labor, resulting in entire inability to pay without heavy increases in rates to be paid by the public—especially the farming class.

IS THE PUBLIC PREPARED TO MEET THE DEMAND?

This notice is for the information of all concerned.

E. P. RIPLEY, President.
